HIBERNIANS

Present Organ to Catholic Chaplain at Camp Zachary Taylor.

Rev. Father Raphael and Father Rawlinson Address A. O. H.

Big Initiation Wednesday Night Arouses Hibernian Interest.

LADIES' AUXILIARY DONATION

An unusually large attendance of the members of Division 4 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was present at the meeting Monday night in Bertrand Hall, and those present were well rewarded for their presence, as it marked a big revival for Hibernianism in this section and all were given an insight into the work of the Catholic chaplains at Camp Zachary Taylor, the progress of that work being a revelation to many. The meeting Monday was arranged principally for the presentation of an organ to the Catholic chapel at Camp Zachary Taylor and Rev. Father Raphael, post chaplain, and Rev. Father Rawlinson, army chaplain, were present to express their appreciation of the gift. Father Raphael told of the good work being done at the post for Catholic boys and how their influence was bearing fruit among non-Catholic soldiers who were enjoying the benefits of the Catholic recreation rooms, and that many of the latter were coming to the priests stationed there for religious instruction in the Catholic faith.

Father Raphael related an incident of a father who was uneasy concerning his son's moral training at the soldier camp and decided to visit and see for himself the actual conditions. He made the trip, arriving at the camp Sunday morning, and went to one of the Catholic chaplains to hear mass and at the same time to locate his son, who was unaware of his father's visit. On entering the chapel and looking around for his son, what was his great and pleasurable surprise to find his boy serving mass. It is needless to add that the parent went home greatly relieved in every way. The speaker told of the work being done in general, and that all of it was possible only through the help and co-operation of the Catholic people here, and he urged his hearers to come often to the camp and see the work that was being done, as a visit is sure to enlist one as a booster and helper for the great religious efforts being made. Father Raphael also mentioned the fact that he had in his possession a check for $100, a present from the Ladies' Auxiliary, to aid in purchasing altar necessities.

Rev. Father Rawlinson, an army chaplain stationed here, was the next speaker, and he made quite a big hit with his breezy talk interspersed with good logic and humor. He explained that he was a secular priest, or as some styled it a "civilian" priest, and that his class did not have the persuasive powers of the order priests and was following for the benefit of his friend, Rev. E. A. Baxter, who was present. "Two tramps in front of a rectory saw an order priest coming out and one of the sons of rest approached the priest for a touch. On his return he told his fellow bum that the priest put up such a hard luck story that he gave the priest a dollar to help his poor church." Father Rawlinson told his hearers that he was opposed to the societies giving dances on Saturday night for the soldiers as it interfered with many of them going to confession.

Rev. Father Baxter complimented the A. O. H. for their good work in connection with the camp and also paid a nice tribute to the priest chaplains, who were patriots of the first order. Talks were also made by County President John H. Hennessy, Division President Thomas Lynch, Thomas Keenan, Thomas Walsh, Thomas Donohue, Senator Mark Ryan, S. J. McElliot and William P. McDonough, Chairman of the Organ Representation Committee, who requested all of the members to attend the masses at the camp on Sunday morning, which are said to be at 8, 8:15 and 9 o'clock. Before adjourning a resolution was adopted suggesting to the County Board that steps be taken right away to prepare for a big St. Patrick's day celebration and parade on March 17.

A class of twenty-two were initiated into the order Wednesday night, with a splendid exemplification of the degrees by Division 4's degree team, and following the initiation a big Thanksgiving lunch was served by the Entertainment Committee. Many of the old guard were present and all enjoyed the vocal and musical selections, but the hit of the evening was made by the dancers with their Irish reels and reels. A big delegation was present from Division 3, led by President John Riley and Vice President Tim O'Leary.

"GOD'S WILL."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. McGuarran, Sr., of Chicago, who have given six of their nine sons to the war, lost one of the remaining three Wednesday in an automobile accident.

Mr. McGuarran, Sr., and two other men in the automobile were seriously injured when it collided with a street car. Mr. and Mrs. McGuarran recently received a letter from President Wilson commending them for giving six sons to the war. "It's God's will, but who would have thought that the boy back home would be the first to go," said Mrs. McGuarran, as she viewed the body of her son.

FOWLER IS TIPPED.

Among all classes of citizens of Louisville there was a feeling of satisfaction when it became known on Tuesday that Dr. J. W. Fowler, for the past eight years Superintendent of the City Hospital, had been recommended for the Superintendency of the new City and County Hospital at Oakland, Cal., by Winford F. Smith, Superintendent of Johns Hopkins Hospital, according to an announcement Monday night at the meeting of the Jefferson County Medical Society. Resolutions drafted by Dr. Leon L. Solomon, Dr. Bernard Asman and Dr. Philip F. Barbour commending Dr. Fowler and wishing him God speed in any new work he may embark in were adopted. The Oakland Hospital was only recently completed and is regarded as one of the most modern in the United States. It has 1,500 beds.

PIONEER CITIZEN DEAD.

The funeral of Timothy D. O'Sullivan took place from the family residence, 1056 Seventh street, Monday morning at 8:45 o'clock, and from St. Louis Bertrand's church at 9 o'clock, a solemn high requiem mass being said with Rev. E. A. Baxter as celebrant, Rev. B. F. Logan as deacon and Rev. R. G. Lyons as sub-deacon. In the funeral oration Rev. Father Baxter paid many glowing tributes to the religious spirit of the deceased, and how faithful he was in the practice of his religion, that in the declining years of his life his mind was wholly occupied with thoughts of God and his church. The speaker also referred to his Irish patriotism and that next to his church and family he dearly loved the Emerald Isle and during his long career here aided Ireland's cause in many ways and was well versed on her affairs up to the time of his death. He was a member of St. Louis Bertrand's congregation since its organization and one of the charter members of the Holy Name Society, which society met at the house and recited the rosary for the repose of his soul. Mr. O'Sullivan was eighty-three years of age and for over forty years was a foreman at Turner, Day & Woolworth Company. Besides his wife he is survived by three daughters, Sister Alexia, Mother Superior of Holy Rosary Academy; Sister Doloretta, of Rantoul, Ill., and Miss Nellie O'Sullivan.

BIGOTRY

Would Overturn the Pillars of Our National Constitution.

The Reign of Terror That Prevailed Here Bloody Monday.

CATHOLIC LOYAL TO COUNTRY

A petty host, filled with malice, has long been busy striving to overturn the pillars of our national constitution and to shake its foundations. Small in spirit, cowardly in method, poor in all that goes to make a man, yet with a besetting sin of fanaticism, he has been ever ready to unite efforts. For the liberty of our native land they would substitute the tyranny of bigotry; for fraternity, civil hatred; for justice, religious persecution. Though the church which they assail is raised above their Lilliputian efforts, and the white radiance of its beauty can never be soiled by them, yet its members and institutions may be made to suffer from the fanaticism. Like Middleton's witches, they frequently bring about their immediate object, to "raise jars, jealousies, strifes and heart-burnings, disagreements, like a thick scurf over life." There are besides greater dangers than these to be apprehended. A glance at the past may be a warning for the future.

When the War of the Revolution had been fought and Catholics and Protestants in common had centred with their blood the foundations of the new republic, it might reasonably have been hoped that bigotry would be forgotten and Catholic patriotism receive from the Father of his Country so unreservedly bestowed upon it. The same might have been looked for even more assuredly after the War of 1812. Yet a renewal of the spirit of intolerance was to be witnessed before a score of years had passed, and in 1831 an organized press propaganda of slander was begun against the church, after the first severe outbreak of fanaticism had already taken place.

The bigotry incited by pulp and press, and stimulated by public placards, founded its complete expression in the destruction of the Ursuline Convent at Charlestown, Mass., in 1834. Not only was the Blessed Sacrament dishonored, but everything within the building was destroyed before the torch was set to it. The engines that arrived at the scene of conflagration stood idly by and the firemen watched the drunken rabble dandling in glee about the burning pile and then retired. The Magistrates did not move a finger. Such are some of the details given by John Gilmary Shea, "The mob," he writes, "did not even spare the graves of the dead. The coffins were torn open and the bodies exposed." A farcical trial, with the set purpose of acquitting the rioters, completed the incident. The charges made against the Sisters were disproved by a Protestant committee, but the harm had been done. Such was the first result of the campaign of slanders and accusations carried on against Catholic institutions. The churches in Boston were threatened and could rely for their protection only on the strong arm of Catholics themselves. The Pope was shot in effigy by the Washington Artillery.

The work of the father of lies now continued. The spirit of Benedict Arnold was abroad in the land. Men were to be found then as now willing to betray the peace and welfare of their country in order to satisfy their bigotry or promote their own private interests. Political associations having such purposes in view arose and passed away and were supplanted by new organizations with the same scope and nature. Each worked in turn upon the ignorance or prejudice of the men whom it deceived. Unscrupulous politicians were not unwilling to use them as political tools.

RECENT DEATHS.

Oliver Grant, twenty-six years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Grant, died Monday afternoon at the family home, 721 West Oak street, of pneumonia. He was a member of the Holy Name Society and had been employed by the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company. Besides his parents he leaves five sisters, by whom he will be sadly missed. His funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church.

Profound sorrow touched many homes in the city, particularly in the West End, when news of the death of Mrs. Lula McGlynn, beloved wife of Charles McGlynn, 672 South Thirty-fourth street, became known. Mrs. McGlynn was thirty-nine years old, and was a woman whose practical qualities and service for the good of others won her a wide circle of friends. Her funeral took place Sunday afternoon from Holy Cross church.

Frank Elvin, beloved husband of Josephine Elvin, 618 South Thirtieth street, and for years a well known figure in Louisville, died early Tuesday morning. He was born ninety-three years ago in Canada, but had spent nearly all his life here, where he was known for his kindly manner and generosity to those in distress. He was the father of Detective Frank Elvin. The funeral was held Thursday morning at Holy Cross church, Rev. Father Brey saying the requiem mass.

Martin J. Butler, fifty-five years old and a widely known and respected resident of the West End, died early Tuesday morning of a complication of diseases at his home, 2305 Portland avenue. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Butler; two sons, James Butler, Deputy City Assessor, and George P. Butler, Deputy Circuit Court Clerk; five daughters, Misses Ella May, Mary, Anna Rose, Elizabeth and Laura; and a brother, George J. Butler, formerly a member of the Board of Aldermen. The funeral took place Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church.

With regret we chronicle the death of Mrs. Charlotte Ann Kilkenny, fifty-two years old, wife of James Kilkenny, 1582 Prentiss street, who succumbed to a complication of diseases Wednesday morning. Mrs. Kilkenny was a faithful wife and loving mother and died early Tuesday morning in the neighborhood in which she resided. Besides her husband she leaves three sons and two daughters, for whom she felt the deepest sympathy. The funeral was held Friday morning from St. Peter's church, attended by a large number of sorrowing friends.

note their own private interests. Political associations having such purposes in view arose and passed away and were supplanted by new organizations with the same scope and nature. Each worked in turn upon the ignorance or prejudice of the men whom it deceived. Unscrupulous politicians were not unwilling to use them as political tools.

The angel of darkness is a gentleman, Shakespeare tells us; he is a patriot, he can even be the purest of pure evangelicals. All these forms he must assume, singly or in combination, to deceive a people who, though they desire fair play, yet can readily enough be deluded for a time and betrayed into acts of injustice and tyranny against the victims of his guile.

The Native American party arose in 1844, when the American Protestant Association, founded in 1831, had been repudiated as an organized falsehood by American Protestants.

In danger at the hands of the "foreign Papists." They had preserved it to the world for all these centuries, they had guarded it as one of the most precious treasures of the world, and they were now willing to lay down their lives for the truths it contained. For this very reason they insisted so strongly upon the exclusive use of an approved Catholic version for the children of the church. But reason obtains scant hearing from fanatic bigotry. It was easier to argue with poor, distraught and raving fear, bidding the cataclysms and horrors of heaven and hell to lightning since his white head, than to convince blind prejudice. Worse than all is the filial malice or base political intrigue that underlies such movements.

The Native American party during the first five months of its existence was thus summarized by the Rev. M. F. Plithan, a Protestant minister: "Two Catholic churches burned, one thrice fired and desecrated; a Catholic seminary and retreat consumed by the torches of an incendiary mob; two rectories and a most valuable library destroyed; forty dwellings in ruins, about forty human lives sacrificed and sixty of our fellow citizens wounded; riot and rebellion and treason rampant; the laws boldly set at defiance, and peace and order prostrated by 'ruffian violence.'"

To picture in detail the scenes of bigotry and fanaticism, of anarchy and treason which now followed with the appearance of the American Protective Association, founded in 1852, were a long and dismal task. In "Loyalty of Catholics," from which the above extract is quoted, a brief enumeration is made of the "protective" acts of the fanatics was an attack upon a convent of helpless and offensive nuns in Providence, R. I. Next followed outbreaks of civic hatred from press and platform in the cities of Boston, Baltimore, Wheeling, Pittsburgh and many other places. The agitation reached a climax in the mob attack upon the Cathedral of Cincinnati, resulting in the loss of several lives. The patriotic work now continued with the bloody riots of St. Louis; with

MAYOR HYLAN

New Chief Executive of New York Is a Self-made Man.

Starts Life on Farm and From Railway Fireman Becomes Lawyer.

His Wife His Good Adviser in Everything, Including Politics.

STUDIED LAW AND RAN ENGINE

Mayor-elect Hyman, of New York, was complained of as an obscure candidate when he was nominated. Of course he is now in the limelight and the papers find a human interest in his rise from poverty. His first work off the farm was in the capacity of water-boy for a railroad section gang. He was a husky lad and the farm training and railroad work toughened his muscles. When he was old enough he became a brakeman and fireman on the Stony Cove and Catskill Mountain and Kaaterskill railroads. After he became a fireman there wasn't any more work in the Hyman family at home, and he went to New York. Johnny's wages took care of that.

At the age of nineteen Johnny Hyman, who had been gradually tiring of the gloomy mountain scenery of his birthplace and his narrow environment, determined to strike out in the world and take a chance in the city. His parents didn't want him to go to the wicked city, but his determination had developed, and he was a large, drooping red mustache and considered himself man enough to tackle the city and got away with it. Surprisingly borrowing a trade dollar from a neighbor, he left for New York.

He had a distant relative in the then city of Brooklyn, and that fact prompted him to settle there. Through this relative he got work as a track-layer on the Brooklyn Elevated railroad, but he thought he was capable of something better, and he put in an application for a fireman's job. On March 11, 1888, he was notified to report for duty the next day, and Johnny and New York's famous blizzard arrived at the same time. In the fall of 1889 he was promoted to the engineer's side of the cab with a wage of more than $100 a month. Then he felt that he could go back home up country and claim his boyhood sweetheart, Marian O'Hara, who lived on a near-by farm. Marian was willing, and they were married and established themselves in a two-family house in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn, where the Judge has lived ever since—not in the same house to be sure, for he now occupies one of his own. To a reporter the Judge said:

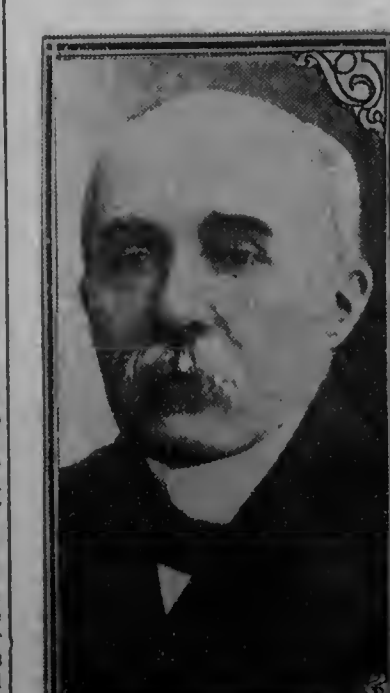

"For perhaps a year I was utterly ambitious. My younger brother, who had been studious and had worked his way into a substantial education, died about this time. That event switched me out of the beaten track. I thought of my own case. I had no education. We had looked to my brother to carry the family name into the law and we had anticipated that he would win distinction at the bar. The death of my brother blasted that family hope. I can not remember when the notion first came to me, but I conceived the idea that I might take the place of my dead brother and represent the Hyman family at the bar. I broached the subject to my wife. It was our first big problem. Her advice was good then. It has always been good since, and I consult with her about everything—even politics. She told me to take a chance. I had determined to become a lawyer. While I had the groundwork of an education acquired in a country school I realized that I was far from qualified to begin the study of law without preliminary training. I looked over the situation carefully and decided to take the academic course in the Long Island Business College, in Brooklyn, and to ground myself in law by reading law-books in the office of a friend in Long Island City. I am more or less methodical and I framed a programme for myself which would allow me to pursue my studies and at the same time run my engine on the Brooklyn 'L.'"

Some idea of the task which young Hyman set himself may be gathered from the fact that he worked hard days a week on his engine, taking it out every afternoon at 2:30 or 3 o'clock, and on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays working thirteen hours straight. On Saturdays his bit was twelve hours and on Sundays eleven. The rest of his time he divided as best he could between his studies, his law-reading and sleep. After graduating from the business college young Hyman studied law for two years at New York Law School. One of his instructors was President Wilson, who lectured on constitutional law. A month before his graduation in June, 1897, Hyman was separated from his job on the Brooklyn 'L.' An inspector caught him studying law in the cab of his engine, reported him, and he was dismissed. With his wife and infant daughter young Hyman went back to the old farm at Hutter, where he spent the summer of 1897. The bar examinations were held in Syracuse in October. Hyman had exhausted his savings, but he had his card of membership in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers—of which he is still a member in good standing—and this card enabled him to ride from his home to Syracuse and back in the cabs of West Shore railroad locomotives. He passed his bar examination. It was now up to the ex-locomotive engineer to make a living as a lawyer. He put a mortgage of $500 on the old homestead, returned to Brooklyn, and opened a law-office at Gates avenue and Broadway, where he was known. His first month as a lawyer netted him $25 in fees, his second month $46, and his third month, $81. From then on his income steadily increased, but he didn't open a larger office until he had paid off the $500 mortgage on the old farm.

LIEUT. KEHOE.

Information was received in Jeffersonville the first of the week from Fort Benjamin Harrison that Russell P. Kehoe, a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kehoe, will receive a commission as First Lieutenant in the cavalry branch of the army. He has been ordered to report at Fort Riley, Kan., December 15, for duty. Lieut. Kehoe is a college graduate, and was admitted to the Clark county bar some time ago. He was taking a post-graduate course at Ann Arbor, Mich., when he decided to enter camp.

CAMOUFLAGE

Motto For the Republican Board of Public Works.

The Charter and City Ordinance Considered Lightly by Reformers.

Report That Davy Rose and Brumleve Have Had Disagreement.

GEN. HALDEMAN SHOULD RESIGN

Camouflage is a word which nearly all are familiar with now because of its frequent mention in the war dispatches, and as all know it means to disguise or color something to fool the enemy. This word could be aptly applied to the new local administration, and especially the performances of the Board of Public Works. Hardly a day passes but that Davy Rose, Chairman of that board, pulls off his camouflage stunt for the benefit of the administration and to fool the public, his performance being endorsed by the Herald, Courier-Journal and Times. One of the board's statements concerning the big saving in money by the abolishment of jobs is so glaringly false that many wonder at the nerve of the camouflage artists in trying to get away with it. Take this one item for instance: Davy says that the new board abolished fifty-two supervisors, who made $90 a month, or a saving of $66,160 a year. No one knows that a supervisor under the Democratic administration was only paid for the time he worked and many of that number did not make $90 a year, while the writer knows personally of men on the list of supervisors who never drew a cent salary the past year, yet our new reform board reports a saving of $1,080 on men who never drew a cent salary—some saving.

The Courier-Journal and Times know this to be true, but because of their grievance against the Democratic party locally will not expose the camouflage stunt. The Herald, not being familiar with Louisville affairs, does not know any better and, parrot-like, only repeats what Davy Rose gives out. If the camouflage board had a record of fifty-two supervisors who drew twelve months pay of $90 a month, that list would have been published ere this. The expose of this camouflage stunt will come with the announcement of the new tax rate. If the reform administration has made the sweeping reductions as advertised then the public should expect a tax reduction of 25 per cent, or more. WATCH THE TAX RATE and see the expose of the camouflage.

According to friends of Mr. Brumleve, the predicted split between him and the Chairman of the board has already come to pass, and they tell that the friction came over the proposal of the board to discharge all of the white dust in the street cleaning department and employ negroes instead. The story goes that Mr. Brumleve voted to keep the white men, while Rose and his colleague Miller voted for the colored brother. It is also rumored that if enough negroes can not be secured a cargo of Huns will be imported to take the places of the white men.

While camouflage seems to be the motto of the Board of Public Works, "brute force" and "put it over" seems to be the motto of the other departments. The charter, which past administrations have regarded religiously, is ignored daily by the new administration. A resident and voter of Shelbyville is appointed Chief of Police, a resident and voter of Cincinnati is appointed Chief of the Fire department, an old man sixty-one years of age is put in the Detective department, "vay" notoriety and conductors are put in the Police and Fire department, regardless of how long they have been residents; reappointment of men who were discharged for grievous cause, the charter and law being ignored freely. Col. Pettit, the new Chief, is a high-class gentleman, is regarded highly in his home town, Shelbyville, and rumor has it that he is already disgusted with the material they are forcing on to him in the Police department.

There is much feeling in local Democratic circles over the attempt of the Haldeman papers to dictate as to the reorganization of the Democratic Committee, considering how those two journals knifed the reformers previous to the election and their course now in pandering to the Republican administration. The Courier-Journal and Times became disgruntled when the party failed to nominate Greene and Woodruff and seized the first opportunity to double-cross the ticket, using a Green-street brawl as an excuse to run out. If there is any reorganization of the party then National Committeeman W. B. Haldeman should take the initiative and tender his resignation as a party representative in extenuation for his crime betraying the party locally. The reward thus far has been the appointment of former employee, Chairman of the Board of Sanitary Secretary to the Police department and a rumored promise of holding favorites in the county offices.

HYSTERICAL.

There are many irresponsible people scattering wild-eyed stories of German spies, plots, etc., and some are disposed to question the loyalty of all German-American citizens, many of whom have shown their loyalty to the country in many ways. A writer in the New York press says:

People are evidently in a state of excitement, of heated passion. In such a state the imagination works wildly and irresponsibly. It was such a state, but of far greater intensity of course, that bred the Reign of Terror during the French Revolution. The religious imagination, similarly excited, caused the burning of witches at Salem, as it had caused the same phenomenon on a much grander scale throughout Europe. In both these cases there was also a "secret enemy" at work: at Paris, the aristocrat; in the witch craze, the devil. Both cases should still serve as warnings that any kind of fanciful stories can be created and can find belief where men's minds are under strong excitement and where a "secret enemy" is present or suspected.

GOOD SIGN.

One of the most favorable signs for the Allies is the creation of a central war council which has been agreed upon. This assures military co-ordination and co-operation which never could be brought about under the former plan of separate and independent operation against the enemy. Russia is no longer counted upon to exert any force against Germany. Although the offer of the Bolsheviks for a peace on the basis of Socialism has been rejected in Berlin conditions in Russia make effective participation in the war impossible. Had the Allies realized the condition of Russia six months ago the drive against Italy could have been foreseen and prepared for. There is now no talk of peace in any quarter; probably there will be no further peace talk until well into next summer. By that time the situation will probably have resolved itself into a test of endurance on the western front. America will then be bearing the heaviest share of the Allies' offensive and we shall also have the important word to say in regard to peace terms.

SOCIALISM DANGEROUS.

The great industrial unrest throughout the country manifested itself in no uncertain way in the recent elections. This unrest thirty odd years ago evidenced itself in movements that were distinctly labor ones and for the betterment of the laboring man. The full dinner pail was expressive of labor's aim and ambition. Labor organizations were formed throughout the country with leaders who sought only to better the conditions of labor without destroying the whole social fabric and attempting to reorganize society upon Socialistic principles. In the recent elections, however, the large increased vote cast in industrial centers for Socialistic candidates was due to discontented labor that voted not, we believe, as a convert to Socialism, but as a medium through which it might give expression to its dissatisfaction with both the leading political parties that have for years past filled the dinner pail with promises and the heart with false hopes. Whether it is a vote of protest or an ominous warning, the resultant fact is that Socialism has received a great impetus which will embolden its leaders to demand recognition of its socialistic principles rather than labor amelioration. And therefore the Hibernian sounds warning that the success of Socialism only endangers labor and would lead, among other things, to an industrial revolution by violence destined to be a failure, when such revolution may be accomplished by the gentleness of logic without destroying existing institutions.

HOSTILE TORY PAPERS.

Lloyd George's activity in the formation of an Allied war council to direct the armies has provoked the hostile criticism of the Tory press, and in fact of every newspaper in England whose policy is controlled by the war profiteer and those who aim at the control of world's trade. It was a fore conclusion indeed that any looking to the unification of Allied forces would be unpopular. England has had an eye single to her own aggrandizement throughout all stages of the war up to date. She has added to her empire, and the safeguarding of her acquired possessions has marked her course throughout. Under the new arrangement England will no longer be required to do her full share toward heating the Central Powers. This will mean that she must get her idle millions of trained men into the trenches, but it will also mean that when peace comes to her she will not be in a position to force her will on her Allies as well as her enemies. England does not like this, hence her fury over the establishment of a council which will make her toe the mark.

FIGHTING FOR SECURITY.

The only nation at war which has no immediate tangible objective is the United States. Every other nation is fighting for something and, if it wins, will get something tangible. The United States is fighting for something intangible. We could not collect it at a peace conference. We could not add it, if we were victorious, to our possessions. The intangible something for which we are fighting may be called humanity, right, democracy, peace, or anything else, but it is in truth the security of the United States. That is the only thing in behalf of which the United States Government has the right to conscript the men of the United States and make them fight. It is for that the United States is fighting and it is that we must plan to preserve. While there will be a general disposition to study and remove causes of war, the United States must be always prepared for any eventuality. This war has opened our eyes to our needs and what was almost utter helplessness.

The coal famine that threatened Kentucky gives little cause for alarm. Seven more coal mining companies were granted charters last week. And there are more being organized.

They are talking about meatless days and wheatless days and eatless days, but when winter gets started we'll have heatless days, unless the gas people get busy and not be heatless.

Quietly but effectively everywhere the Ancient Order of Hibernians are "doing their bit" for the men who are enlisted for Uncle Sam and the flag.

The general intention of the League of the Sacred Heart for December is "The Decree on Daily Communion."

Tomorrow will be the first Sunday in Advent.

MONROE DOCTRINE BARRIER.

There is no question but that Germany has long been desirous of securing a foothold on South American soil not only commercially but diplomatically, and has schemed diplomatically to achieve that end. The Monroe doctrine has been the one barrier to her ambitious aim and were it not for that it is more than probable that by this time she would have conquered one or more of the South American countries and made herself a disagreeable neighbor. In the Spanish-American war she was prepared to declare war if the neutrality of the European powers was assured. Preparedness was her watchword and she knew that we were about as much prepared for war as an Indian summer. It is perhaps fortunate for us that our entrance into the war found Germany and her fleet tied up in a death struggle with the European powers. It now gives us a chance to organize and awaken in us the danger of a too complacent confidence in our national security from European aggression. If war with Germany had to come it is most fortunate that it came under present circumstances. It means that we have saved hundreds of thousands of lives and millions of property that would have been the prey of a thoroughly prepared military machine. We now realize that the methods of warfare have changed and that we must practically change our whole system of civic and commercial life. We have no sympathy with the German Government and its blind policy of arrogant military pride, and like all true Americans, hope for her defeat, but we also have little faith in English sincerity that refuses to grant to Ireland that which would add hundreds of thousands of men to her fighting force in Europe and secure the good will of the Irish the world over. Therefore when we demand of England freedom of Ireland we do it not as pro-German but as pro-Irish and with all the patriotic love of a native born citizen for his country.—Boston Hibernian.

TELL HER SO.

Amid the cares of married life, in spite of toil and business strife, if you value still your wife, Tell her so!

Prove to her you don't forget The bond to which your seal is set; She's of life the sweetest yet— Tell her so!

When the days are dark and deeply blue, She has her troubles, same as you; Show her that your love is true— Tell her so!

In former days you praised her style, And spent much time to win her smile; 'Tis just as well now worth your while— Tell her so!

Don't act as if she'd passed her prime, As though to please her were a crime— If e'er you loved her, now's the time— Tell her so!

She'll return for each caress A hundredfold of tenderness; Hearts like hers are made to bless! Tell her so!

You are here, and hers alone— Well you know she is your own; Don't wait to "carve it on a stone"— Tell her so!

Never let her heart grow cold— Richer beauties will unfold; She is worth her weight in gold! Tell her so!

P., sixty-three years old, assistant pastor at St. Mary's church at New Haven, Conn., who was stricken with apoplexy at the Yale Bowl, died at St. Raphael's Hospital, that city, according to a telegram received here Sunday night. The Rev. Father Linlithgow was well known in Kentucky, where he was pastor for several years. He was born at Springfield, and entered the Dominican order at St. Rose's convent, where he was afterward Prior. Later he became Superior of the Dominican College in Washington. He went to New Haven in 1886 when the Dominicans took over St. Mary's parish. He was closely associated with the Rev. Father A. V. Higgins, O. P., and the Rev. P. V. Hartman, O. P., who also are well known in Louisville. Although his earlier assignments were in New York City, he always boasted of being a Kentuckian. While in Washington he often visited the Old Soldiers' Home and was a loyal friend of the soldiers. ## VATICAN GREAT WORK.

Complete returns from the Peter Pence collection are not in, but it is expected that the fund will break all records because of the great need for funds during the war by the Vatican. Tremendous demands are being made upon Vatican benevolence because of the war. Not only are the regular demands for aid for the sick and aged, and for the destitute dependents of men who have been sent to the front, but the Vatican is maintaining a world-wide search and identification bureau for finding the missing. Hundreds of thousands of persons are confined in prisons or internment camps, and thousands of others, their families broken up by the war, have been driven from their homes by their cities being included in the sweep of the battling armies.

To trace all of these persons is therefore a tremendous task and one to which the Vatican, as well as other public and private organizations, has given great attention. The Vatican, with its world-wide organization of clergy and lay societies, is in a better position than any other agency to accomplish results, and the work is well organized and has achieved great success.

Persons making inquiry for missing soldiers may address their letters either to the Pope himself, to the Papal Secretary of State or to the Director of the Vatican Soldiers' Bureau. The bureau takes the time of a little army of ecclesiastics and laymen, speaking all languages, and their task is never-ending. The bureau naturally wants the full name and description of the person inquired about, his regiment and company, and if possible a photograph, but seldom are all of these details furnished. In many cases letters of inquiry have failed to give even the name of the person inquired about. "Please, Holy Father, find my husband" or "my son" has been the anguished cry of many women. In the majority of cases, however, better guidance is furnished, but even with the most complete information the search is often long and arduous. A soldier listed in action can be identified by the metal tag attached to his person, giving his name, regiment, residence and religion, but the ones taken prisoner are handled only in bulk and left unclassified until they reach the prison camp to which they are ordered. Without means of communicating with friends outside, they can only wait to be found, and there are so many places to search and such an immense number of men among whom the search must be made, its difficulties and delays are as numerous as they are heartbreaking for those who are seeking them.

FLAG AT MASS.

At the military mass celebrated in St. Aloysius church on Thanksgiving day a service flag bearing 200 stars was unfolded. They represented the former students of Gonzaga College, who are now in the military service of the Government.

ASKS CATHOLIC FUND.

Cardinal Gibbons has sent a letter to all the Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops of the United States asking their co-operation in an effort to raise a large fund to be used for providing comforts for American soldiers and to be a direct contribution of the Catholics of this country in the war. The plan was discussed at a meeting of the hierarchy recently and was endorsed at a meeting of priests in Baltimore last week. It was announced that while a large percentage of the men now in uniform are Catholics the fund will not be used for their benefit solely, it having been decided that the money will be spent where needed regardless of religious affiliation. Every member of the Catholic church is to be reached through the collection. Cardinal Gibbons stated that he is planning to establish libraries at the camps and other comforts that are not supplied by the Quartermaster's Department. Part of the fund, he announced, will go to the Knights of Columbus to help them in their efforts to provide for portable altars and altar furnishings, so that mass can be said in the field. Chaplains who volunteer their services free of salary also will be provided for from the fund.

DENIES PEACE APPEAL.

The Associated Press sent the following dispatch from Rome on Wednesday:
Spending in the name of Pope Benedict, the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Gasparri, today issued a general denial of reports that the Vatican was working in the interest of a peace which would not be just or durable and that propaganda from the Vatican was responsible for the breakdown of the morale of Italian troops with the consequent recent defeat on the Isonzo. It is stated that army chaplains worked to prevent demoralization of the troops. It is also said that the Pope disapproved of chain prayers and other peace efforts of this nature.

GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS.

According to the census of 1910, there were in the United States 2,501,333 natives of Germany, 1,174,973 natives of Austria and 495,609 natives of Hungary, which makes a total of 4,171,915 natives of the Central empires in this country. In addition there were 709,070 American born persons, both of whose parents were natives of Austria; 3,911,847 native born persons, both of whose parents were born in Germany; and 191,095 native born persons, both of whose parents were born in Hungary. There were also in the United States at the time of the 1910 census 117,565 native born persons, one of whose parents was born in Germany, and 13,568 native born persons, one of whose parents was born in Hungary.

Of the 2,501,333 natives of Germany who were in the United States in 1910, 436,911 were in New York, 319,199 were in Illinois, 233,384 in Wisconsin, 196,202 in Pennsylvania, 131,586 in Michigan, 109,628 in Minnesota, 175,096 in Ohio, and 122,880 in New Jersey. These are the only States that had persons of German birth numbering more than 100,000. There were 76,307 Germans in California, 62,117 in Indiana, 58,759 in Iowa, 88,226 in Missouri, 57,302 in Nebraska and 44,929 in Texas. Of the 1,174,973 natives of Austria who were in the United States in 1910, 163,025 were in Illinois, 35,455 in Massachusetts, 31,034 in Michigan, 37,121 in Minnesota, 24,362 in Nebraska, 56,779 in New Jersey, 245,004 in New York, 72,887 in Ohio, 251,774 in Pennsylvania, and 38,692 in Wisconsin. Of the 495,609 natives of Hungary in the United States in 1910, 39,859 were in Illinois, 47,610 in New Jersey, 95,843 in New York, 85,881 in Ohio, and 123,498 in Pennsylvania. No other State had more than 15,000 natives of Hungary in the population.

NEVER SO PROUD.

There never was a time since the Liberty Bell rang out on that day in July, 1776, when a true, loyal, honest American citizen feels—and has the right to feel—so proud of his country's flag and his fellow-citizens.—Catholic Messenger.

the tarring and feathering of a Jesuit priest at Ellsworth, Maine; with the attempted destruction of the city of Newark, N. J.; Williamburg, N. Y., and Manchester, N. H., and with the successful burning or wrecking by gunpowder of Catholic churches in Bath, Maine; Dorchester, Mass.; and Sydney and Massillon, Ohio. The supreme triumph of the movement was the murder of a hundred poor Irish and Germans on "Bloody Monday" in Louisville, Ky. Here, surely is an honorable record of achievements in the service of the powers of darkness, for a period extending only from 1852 to August 6, 1855, for the latter is the date of the massacre referred to, of which Bishop Spalding wrote:

"We have just passed through a reign of terror, surpassed only by the Philadelphia riots. Nearly a hundred poor Irish and Germans have been butchered or burned and some twenty houses have been fired and burned to the ground. The city authorities, all know-nothings, looked calmly on, and they are now endeavoring to lay the blame on Catholics."

This last incident indeed was a refinement worthy of Nero himself. There is no need of continuing the sickening recital. Every rope and wheel and pulley of political intrigue was now set in motion to destroy the religious liberty guaranteed by the Constitution. Petty, spiteful Lilliputian efforts, but dangerous because of their very persistence. We are only too well aware of the constant and insidious attempts which have since then been made to discredit the church. The associations which have been founded and the papers which have been issued with the sole purpose of compassing the financial and political ruin of the church by every foul and treasonable means are sufficiently familiar. "We are endeavoring to tabulate and run to corner all Romanists running for office on State and Congressional tickets," thus runs the confidential message sent out from a paper whose editor professes to be a minister of the gospel. "Let it be understood that no Catholic need apply on election day, or on any other day," is the noncommittal made in another place. There is no need of multiplying instances. Yet under all these outrages Catholics have displayed nothing but the most scrupulous loyalty to their country, fighting hard and in the foremost ranks wherever there was a call for patriots and heroes. "Instead of offering the most remote insult, it is our duty to address public thanks to these our brethren," are the memoranda words of Washington, November 5, 1775.

Catholics ask for no favors, but they are bound by their sacred duty of citizenship to secure justice for the church, as for every other right fully established institution in these free States of ours. And they are bound to secure this justice even at the ballot box. "Liberty and Justice for All," is the first principle of the Catholic church, and the Catholic church is not excluded.

Let our great "pulsant," American Catholic church then be alert in the defense of her rights. To bring about her ruin, our foes are ever watchful, ever traitorous, only intent upon the subversion of the principle of true Americanism. Their weapons of calumny and slander may appear in the sight of honest men no better than children's toys, but it is well to recall the fable of the giant, who once fell asleep, so the story goes, and woke to find himself helplessly bound by a thousand cords securely fastened by a host of despicable little creatures. There is a lesson for us in the Gulliver of fiction. For non-Catholics the facts are likewise sufficiently plain. They show that nothing is further from the mind of the church than the thought of meddling with purely political issues. To repeat once more the words of Pope Pius X: "It is not the church that has descended into the political arena; she has been dragged there to be mutilated and despoiled."

BUENOS AYRES.

ARCHBISHOP CHRISTIE.

In December of this year occurs the fortieth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of Most Rev. Alexander Christie, Archbishop of Oregon City. The Archbishop has spent nearly half his priestly life in Portland, having gone there in June, 1889, on his promotion from the bishopric of Vancouver island to the metropolitan see of the Oregon province. Archbishop Christie's episcopate has been an era of marked expansion in Catholic activities. On his first coming to Oregon the Archbishop recognized the possibilities of growth of the Northwest and embarked at once on a constructive policy which he has maintained to the present time. The Archbishop is a native of Highgate, Vermont. In early life he was taken by his parents to Wisconsin and later to Austin, Minnesota, where he grew to manhood. Determining to devote himself to the service of the altar he went to St. John's University, Collegeville, Minn., conducted by the Benedictine fathers. Here his classical studies were made. He pursued his ecclesiastical studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, where he was ordained a priest for the St. Paul diocese by Archbishop Fabre, December 22, 1877.

The great Hotel Dieu Hospital at St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, was destroyed by fire Wednesday. All of the inmates, about 1,000 in number, were removed to safety. Chief of Police Foley lost his life while assisting others to escape. The institution, like many others in the provinces, was managed by the Grey nuns. It consisted of three stone buildings erected at a cost of $600,000.

MIGHTY FACTOR.

Most Rev. Archbishop Hanna, of San Francisco, declared recently: "Better we all died in this war than let the false philosophy which caused it to triumph. There is no doubt about the justice of our cause. But the cause became so great and the danger so imperative that we had to throw in our lot with the other nations. And on this day are the mightiest factor in the struggle."

SINN FEINER'S TRICK.

One of the released Sinn Feiners tells the following: While he was in prison his wife wrote and said that she was in great trouble over the difficulty she experienced in getting her land plowed. The prisoner at once saw his opportunity of getting his own back at the expense of the Saxon, and replied, telling her to ask certain neighbors to give her a helping hand, but to be careful not to dig too deep, as arms and ammunition were buried in his land. As the prisoner knew, the letter would be read by the authorities, who at once ordered his land to be dug up by the police. They dug and dug, but found no arms, and at last gave up their job in despair. The next letter he received from his wife informed him that the police had dug up his farm "illigant," and what was more to the point, they never asked for one penny for their labor.

LATEST IN STYLES.

There is an effort to revive the ostrich plumes for dressy hats. There is not the slightest idea of a return to fullness in frocks or coats. Magenta and the American beauty rose colors appeal for house and evening wear.

The liking for the flat heel during the summer has led to its adoption for year-round wear. The quarter cost is evident, the short jacket with a belt being preferred. Flowing chiffon veils, which hang below the waist at the back, accompany many of the stunning new sailor models.

Purple hats with flowing purple veils, taupe hats with taupe veils and black hats with black veils, are all in good style.

Velvets and velveteens are always a vogue for fall and winter wear, especially for the afternoon costume. This season they will be in his demand. Laced shoes predominate for fall and winter wear. A very dark gray kid will be adopted by many who have always clung faithfully to black.

Long loose coats of velvet trimmed generously with fur and lined with elaborately brocaded silks and satins will be the thing for dressy wear.

Checked velvets are new and are

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

The division at Imogene, Iowa, has one of the best drilled teams in the West.

Division 1 of Cincinnati commemorated its fortieth anniversary with a banquet Sunday evening.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Cincinnati will furnish one complete outfit for army chaplains' use.

San Francisco Hibernians are raising a fund of $20,000 for the entertainment of the national convention.

The Eastern trip of Mrs. Mary McWhorter, National President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, has produced most gratifying results.

Division 4 of St. Paul has a Liberty bond fund, to which it will add the proceeds of its annual Thanksgiving ball and card party.

Division 2 of Syracuse is working for a large membership, and any one securing seven candidates before February 2 will receive a prize of $5.

Among the honored guests at the recent Omaha initiation was Archbishop Harry, who was greatly interested and invited the Iowa delegation to again visit their Omaha brethren.

Division 1 of Southington, Conn., held its most successful meeting in Orley's Hall, when the New Britain degree team exemplified the fourth for twenty-seven candidates. National, State and county officers were present and took for their addresses Hibernian patriotism.

Tuesday night Chairman John A. Hughes and the Hibernians of Archville held their annual Thanksgiving festival, which was largely attended. Soon before midnight a merry and enlivening scene was presented on the streets by the many taking home live turkeys, pigs, geese, chickens, hams, fruit cakes, etc.

Addressing a large Hibernian gathering at Hartford, Conn., Mayor-elect Fitzgerald was warmly applauded when he said: "We glory in the history of Ireland, but there is but one land now for you and for me, there is but one flag, and that flag the Stars and Stripes, symbol of liberty, justice and protection against oppression for all mankind. Let no man for one moment cast reflection on that flag. Let it be revered and honored by Ireland's sons wherever they be."

WILL HEAR FROM THEM.

Many Catholic young men were among the number who this week received their commissions at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Among them are a number who are well known to readers of the Kentucky Irish American, who will give a good account of themselves in the service of their country. They are: First Lieutenants Roy B. Finenga, Joseph W. Fowler, Jr., Emmet B. Ford, Joseph E. Hagans, William T. Hammond, Newton G. Rogers; Second Lieutenants Joseph P. Hines, Joseph R. Kirwan, Richard F. Curran, Paul D. Doherty, all of this city, and James Brophy, of Owensboro; Frank Ginnocchio, of Lexington, and Bernard J. Kavanagh, of Frankfort, First Lieutenant of Infantry, Ambrose G. Geary, of Lexington, was commissioned a Captain.

On Wednesday announcement was made that the following additional commissions had been given: Captain Frank B. McAuliffe, First Lieutenant Ben J. Madden, Second Lieutenants Leo F. Michael, Martin O'Sullivan, John Patrick Murphy, of Covington; Francis Oberst, of Owensboro, and William C. Shinnick, of Shelbyville.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

Sunday morning there was a great outpouring of members of Mackin Council, Y. M. L., at St. Cecilia's church, when the annual memorial mass and communion was offered for the souls of their departed brothers. In the afternoon there was an initiation, for which great preparation had been made, when a splendid class of young men was received into membership. Monday night there was a big and interesting meeting, when officers for the year 1918 were nominated. The election takes place Monday night, and a fine will be assessed against all absentees.

BISHOP CANTWELL.

An important Catholic event of the week was the consecration of the Right Rev. John Cantwell as Bishop of Los Angeles, which took place in San Francisco on Wednesday. Archbishop Hanna was the consecrating prelate, and present were many distinguished clergymen and citizens prominent in public and business life.

TO OUR DEMOCRATIC LEADER.

You ask me why they love him—I thought everybody knew: He's an Irish lad from Limerick, This man so tried and true. From the river out to Jacob Park, Including Germantown, From Crescent Hill to Riverview, Is where his friends are found.

You ask me for a reason—I'll tell to you again: No one ever asked a favor And asked for it in vain. He will listen to a tale of woe, Enjoy a boyish prank; You can slap him on the shoulder With a hearty "Hello, Frank."

He'll take Johnny in his auto, He'll buy a top for Bob, Help the girlie with her roller skates.

And find their dad a job. It seems to be his mission To spread sunshine in your path. Here's success to our great leader, Big-hearted Frank McGrath.

T. J. D.

HAPPILY WEDDED.

Wedding bells rang merrily Monday morning at St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville when Robert B. Gratzler, of this city, led to the altar Miss Margaret M. Dean, the winsome daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Dean. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Michael Halpin, the bridesmaid being Miss Margaret Gratzler, sister of the groom, and Daniel Dean, brother of the bride, acted as best man. After a wedding breakfast at the Dean home the couple left to spend their honeymoon at French Lick Springs, and upon their return they will reside at 2100 Speed avenue.

PRESENT MASS OUTFIT.

The soldiers attending the mass at the K. of C. Auditorium at Camp Zachary Taylor were given a welcome surprise Sunday morning when the celebrant, the Rev. Father Raphael Grashoff, C. P., announced the presence of Miss Mary Corcoran, of this city, who was the bride, and Mrs. J. D. Bennett, Misses Bertha King, Fanny Kennedy and Mary Fallon, who were there to present the Post chaplain and the soldier boys $100 for a mass outfit for the altar on behalf of the Louisville Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. This good Catholic society has also provided many prayer books and rosaries and a great amount of literature for the camp, and so pleased was Father Raphael that he said in his sermon were he any other place he would propose three cheers for the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Hibernians. The women are preparing to adorn with silk the tabernacle and provide other altar furnishings.

WHITE SULPHUR.

The mission at White Sulphur opened in the old historic center of Catholicity on Sunday. The pastor, Father Van Beelaere, had advertised the coming of Father Xavier Sutton, the missionary, by posting handbills in stores and on trees along the roads. White Sulphur was one of the earliest Catholic settlements of Kentucky. The large substantial brick church was built in 1822 and for many years it had a large and flourishing congregation. At one time the Sisters of the Visitation had a convent and school adjoining the church. Many of their alumnae are scattered in the towns and cities of Kentucky and elsewhere. In time the Catholics sold their farms and moved to the hills, and the hearing of the cry of Horace Greely "went West." At the present time there are not more than fifteen families and some of these are not working very hard on the job. Mass is said for the people twice a month. The mission was enthusiastically attended by Catholics and non-Catholics. Some of the old people remarked that it "looked like old times" to see the crowd of people fill up every seat in the dear old church. At night the aspect of the grove about the church was like a fairy scene—lanterns hanging from trees, the headlights from eighteen to twenty autos, and the bright light from the stained glass windows of the church shedding rays all around made a beautiful picture. Thursday night a delegation of people from Frankfort, with Father O'Dwyer, came in ten autos to be present at the lecture. This week has been "home coming week" for many people, who look back to old White Sulphur with fondest memories. A large number of non-Catholics came each night and many heard all the lectures. Great good has been done. The good Catholics have been strengthened in the faith. Some "ought to be's" came back. A few non-Catholics have started instructions, and thus we may say, with God's blessing, White Sulphur has taken on new life. The mission closed Sunday afternoon and was a grand sight.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Fourth degree at Omaha on February 22.

Price Hill Council has 540 members and is now the largest in Cincinnati.

Newport Council has twenty-eight members in the service of the country. In whose honor ladies will make a service flag.

Last Sunday a class of 200 candidates received the fourth degree in the State Armory at Oswego, N. Y.

Archbishop Moeller will officiate at the dedication of the K. of C. building at Camp Sherman at Chillicothe, Ohio.

The Knights have been granted permission to erect recreation halls at all naval stations. This will have far reaching effect.

Sunday was the big day for the Knights of Little Rock, who initiated one of the largest classes ever taken into the order in Arkansas.

The council at Carroll, Iowa, one of the largest in the State, has been further strengthened by the initiation of a class of seventy-eight candidates.

Newport Council had its annual mass for deceased members Tuesday morning at St. Frances de Sales church. The memorial services were held at night in the council hall.

Milwaukee Knights averaged $5 per member for the cantonment fund, raising $5,000, to which was added about $12,000 collected in the churches at the instance of Archbishop Messmer.

When the Knights of Washington inaugurated their campaign for $20,000 for welfare work among soldiers the principal address was made by Rabbi Abram Simon, a Jew who is known for his broad-mindedness and generous sympathies.

Omaha Knights of Columbus "went over the top" for $50,000 the first day of its drive for the war fund, raising the limit to $75,000. They were enabled to do this through the assistance of all the churches and societies and many public spirited citizens.

OWENSBORO.

Thursday was indeed a day of thanksgiving for the people of St. Paul's church and the Catholics of Owensboro, where there was a big and loving celebration of the silver jubilee of the pastorate of the Rev. Edward S. Fitzgerald, one of the really great priests of Kentucky. Father Fitzgerald at first objected to the big celebration planned in his honor, but as Thanksgiving day has always been observed at that church, combining religious services with patriotic duty, this celebration took on a little more solemnity. There was a solemn mass, with the pastor as celebrant, and a special sermon on "Thanksgiving" by the Rev. George M. Connor, pastor of St. William's church, this city. Father Connor for several years was assistant to Father Fitzgerald, and he, better than most, knows why the congregation should be thankful. The special choir sang Marzocchi's mass, and for offertory "Tu Es Sacerdos Moderati," the same hymn sung on the occasion of Father Fitzgerald's sacerdotal jubilee. In the sanctuary were many of the clergy from all parts of Kentucky and the adjoining States.

NEW ALBANY.

The Sarto Literary Club of New Albany, one of the leading society organizations of that city, at its meeting last week elected the following officers: Mrs. James Russell, President; Mrs. James Cox, Vice President; Miss Mayne Russell, Secretary-Treasurer. The club was entertained by Miss Mary Kelly at her home, where Thanksgiving favors were used and the arrangements in keeping, with the ties in the form of turkeys. Miss Kelly's guests were Mesdames Edward J. Hackett, Anderson G. Moore, S. J. Gardner, John A. Cody, William J. Reeve, James L. Russell, Millie Thomas, James Cox; Misses Mayne Russell, Agatha Schaeffer and Mary Egan.
